D. Equity, diversity, and inclusion (EDI)

Project incorporates the perspectives of end-users and other stakeholders, particularly groups facing barriers, in the design and execution of the project, presents practices grounded in EDI principles, and shows potential to further EDI.

Reviewer overall recommendation

Considering the proposal as a whole, do you think FSC should fund this project as a worthwhile contribution to the skills ecosystem?

Overall Recommendation:

- I recommend this project for funding
- I recommend this project for funding conditional on changes and/or more information
- I do not recommend this project for funding

Explain your reasoning for this recommendation.

I want to preface this review with my own bias, which is that universities should not be seeking extra-grant funding (e.g., funding on top of that which they received through the funding formula) for students in programs that are already funded through some existing mechanism (co-op students, Act to Employ, ICUREOUS, SaPP). Curriculum that reinforces competencies such as meta-cognition, communication and problem solving should be infused throughout all programming. If the curriculum offerings were ONLY, for instance, offered to non-credit students or learners in bridging or qualifying programs, I can see how finding alternate funding sources to teach workplace competencies would be important and legitimate. In this case, however, these are add-on programs to students in the above named programs, including Co-op students many of whom I would hazard are "on grant" (funded through the provincial government). So my assessment has more to do with concerns about how this money is being used, rather than for the project itself.

What do you think are the strongest aspects of this project?

The curriculum itself is based on competencies that employers say they are not getting from new workers, so it appears that that would be an interesting feature of the program. The name is also clever, but I think the curriculum should be "infused" throughout the institution's regular programming as a matter of course.

Where do you think the project has gaps or challenges?

This is an extremely large amount of money to augment curriculum development costs for students in select programs that may or may not be off grant (off-grant means not funded by the provincial operating grant). I can't get past this as a reviewer.

Comments

I had to go to the web site to find what this project is about and who it serves and how, which is critical to an assessment of whether the project warrants additional funding... although some of the criticism of the proposed project relates to the crafting of the application, the one-liner did not tell even a partial story of what the project is about... This is from the web site: FUSION has developed a curriculum that consists of a 10-hour online integrated learning experience designed to enhance student skills in three areas critical to 21st century success and leadership: metacognition, communication and problem-solving. The program is currently open to students with a Fall 2020 Co-op placement, those in Act to Employ, and all students registered in the Fall 2020 I-CUREUS and SaPP programs.
